Press Release

Richmond Global Currency Program - Top Performer in Parker FX Index

Richmond, Virginia – November 18, 2008. With a return of +10.17% (net of fees, excluding interest), Richmond Group Fund Co., announced today that Parker Global Strategies, LLC has ranked the September performance of the Richmond Group Global Currency Program, number one out of 71 programs reporting in the Parker FX Index. In addition, the program is also one of the top performing currency programs listed on the Deutsche Bank FX Select Platform, a platform of over 60 top currency managers.

The Global Currency Program is up over 22% (net) year-to-date through October and over the past twenty-four months is up over 30% (net). Richmond Group's founder Robert Marcellus commented "Since 2000, we have focused on creating, designing and implementing quantitative strategies that have the capability to navigate and excel in a wide variety of market conditions, including times of intense market stress."

Richmond Group, an alternative asset manager with an institutional client base, has two unique systematic trading programs that operate across short-to-intermediate time frames. The Global Macro (Diversified) Program is a highly diversified strategy that trades more than 80 markets across 8 market sectors. The Global Currency Program trades over 30 currency pairs including exposure to both developed and emerging markets. Both programs utilize a set of quantitative trading models that are an ideal combination of flexibility, consistency and scalability across numerous markets and time frames.
